

March 2024

Dear Parent/Carer

I am writing to share details with you of the additional intervention sessions we have put in place for our Year 11 students, which will provide them with further exam preparation support during the Easter break.

As the exam season will soon be upon us - exams start on Monday 7 May 2024 - which is only seven school weeks away, we are running intervention sessions during the school Easter break which are detailed in the table below. Students must arrive at school on time for their sessions, as our reception desk is not staffed during half term and the colleagues running the sessions will only be on hand to let students into the building at the specific times detailed.

The expectation is that all students need to carry out daily revision to remain on top of their preparation for their exams. Cramming revision in the night before an exam is not the best way to prepare and this should instead be spread out over a period of weeks and revisited regularly. Please encourage your child to use the weekly revision plans that we send home each week (these are still available on our website) and work set by class teachers to prepare for their examinations.
